ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The preparation of this Inspire enhanced document would not have been possible were it not for the individual and collective efforts of several key people:

Phyllis Land Usher, Assistant Superintendent, Indiana Department of Education Center for School Improvement and Performance for her vision; Dorothy Winchester, IDOE Director of Program Development and Lynn Soskel Davis, Training Coordinator, Division of Human Resources for their collaborative efforts; Nancy McGriff, Vickie Thomas, Mary Watkins, and Marge Cox, Indiana Association of Media Educators members for their direction, leadership, and professional expertise. INCOLSA's support of these "INSPIRED Correlations" was critical to their completion.

Classroom teachers and library media specialists shared their expertise for this document. Their work to impact instruction through the Indiana Academic Standards, Correlations and INSPIRE will be appreciated by thousands of students and teachers. The following people gave of their time and talents to complete these "INSPIRED Correlations".

Marge Cox, Chairperson, Media Services Director, Noblesville Schools, Noblesville, IN Rick Jones, Co-Chairperson, Library Media Specialist, Eastbrook Junior/Senior High School, Marion, IN

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The preparation of this document would not have been possible were it not for the individual and collective efforts of several key people.

The leadership role and encouragement of Phyllis Land Usher, Assistant Superintendent, Center for School Improvement and Performance provided the vision, impetus, and funding for the project from the first contact by the Association of Indiana Media Educators (AIME) leadership until completion of the first phase of this project.

Nancy McGriff, working as a member of the SLMS Cadre and the initial AIME Committee, carried the responsibility for developing the framework and assembling the personnel to develop the document. During the 2001-2002 academic year, Vickie Thomas and Mary Watkins, members of the SLMS Cadre and state AIME chairpersons, assumed the leadership role with the correlations for music, physical education, social studies, and visual arts. Marge Cox, AIME Past President, continued the process for the 2002-2003 academic year. The key members of the SLMS Information Literacy Standards Task Force involved in the entire process of actual reading, writing, and editing of the correlation document are:

Deena Chambers, Family and Consumer Sciences Department Chairperson, Lewis Cass Jr/Sr High School, Walton, IN Joyce Christopher, Media Specialist, West Lafayette Jr/Sr High School, West Lafayette, IN Rose Dixon, Media Specialist, Terre Haute South Vigo High School, Terre Haute, IN Karen Nading, Family and Consumer Sciences Teacher, Columbus East High School, Columbus, IN Jane Steiner, Family and Consumer Sciences Teacher, Southmont Senior High School, Crawfordsville, IN

Special recognition for their generous contribution in time and encouragement are extended to Dorothy Winchester, IDOE Director of Program Development and Peggy Wild, Family and Consumer Sciences State Specialist.

INDIANA INFORMATION LITERACY STANDARDS FOR STUDENT LEARNING

The Indiana Department of Education, Office of Learning Resources, supports the need for the Indiana Academic Standards 2000 to address student library information literacy standards. Charged with this task, the School Library Media Specialists' (SLMS) Cadre Information Literacy Task Force Committee, a collaborative committee of members of the Indiana Department of Education's Technology Leadership School Library Media Specialists and the Association of Indiana Media Educators (AIME), developed a correlation document. It correlates to the Nine Information Literacy Standards developed by the American Association of School Librarians (AASL) and the Association for Educational Communications and Technology (AECT) into Indiana's Academic Standards for Family and Consumer Sciences.

A copy of this document, Correlation of the Information Literacy Standards and the Indiana's Academic Standards Family and Consumer Sciences is available at www.doe.state.in.us/olr.

Purpose of the Correlation of Library Information Literacy Standards and Indiana's Academic Standards for Family and Consumer Sciences.

The mission of the school library program as stated in Information Power: Building Partnerships for Learning (1998) is to "ensure that students and staff are effective users of ideas and information."

The Correlation of the Information Literacy Standards and Indiana's Academic Standards for Family and Consumer Sciences identifies the School Library Information Literacy Standards in the newly adopted Indiana's Academic Standards for Family and Consumer Sciences. SLMS will use these standards to work cooperatively with the building principals, classroom teachers and other professional staff members to insure that student library information literacy standards are taught through a collaborative effort in all curricular areas.

Indiana Legal Requirements for School Library Media Program

The Indiana Administrative Code, 511 IAC 6.1-5.6 Media Program delineates the minimum requirements for a school library media program:

Sec. 6. All schools shall have a media program that is an integral part of the educational program. A licensed media specialist shall supervise the media program. Each school shall spend at least eight dollars ($8) per student per year from its 222000 account to maintain its media program. (Indiana State Board of Education; 511 IAC 6.1-5.6; filed Jan 9, 1989, 11:00 a.m.: 12 IR 1192)

RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN READING IMPROVEMENT AND SCHOOL LIBRARY MEDIA PROGRAM

The direct relationship between reading improvement and an active school library media program staffed by a licensed professional librarian is substantiated by research studies released within the past two years in Colorado, Pennsylvania, and Alaska. [These published studies include: How School Librarians Help Kids Achieve Standards; the Second Colorado Study (April 2000); Information Empowered; The School Librarian as an Agent of Academic Achievement in Alaska Schools (1999); Measuring Up to the Standards; The Impact of School Library Programs and Information Literacy in Pennsylvania Schools (February 2000).]

A Study of the Differences Between Higher-and Lower-performing Indiana Schools, a study by NCREL commissioned by Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. Suellen Reed, was published in February 2000. The study reports one necessary component to increase student performance in lower-performing schools is to “increase student access to instructional and print materials in lower-performing schools, including regular and flexible access to a working library.”

In this context, a working school library with flexible access is open during the regular school hours, is staffed by a professional, licensed school library media specialist, and provides for open and easy access by individual students. Using best practices supports the use of collaboratively planned units involving the classroom teacher and the school library media specialist (SLMS). Dr. David V. Loertscher in Reinventing Indiana’s School Library In the Age of Technology: A Handbook for Principals and Superintendents states that the library collection shall contain the “right materials for the right learners at the right time in every format available” to support curriculum and recreational reading needs. Through the use of Library Information Literacy Standards, teachers and SLMS work cooperatively to plan, teach, and assess the progress of students’ learning.

THE NINE INFORMATION LITERACY STANDARDS FOR STUDENT LEARNING

	Standard 1: Scientific and Sensory Evaluation INSPIRE&gt;Links&gt;Health &amp; Medicine
1.1	Demonstrate the functions of and proper techniques for using science equipment and food preparation equipment in the chemistry of foods laboratory.	x	x	x			x
1.2	Employ the scientific method using appropriate laboratory methods, proper safety procedures, and accurate, objective data-recording techniques in the food science laboratory.	x	x	x			x
1.3	Illustrate physical, psychological, cultural, and environmental influences on food preferences and their impact on nutritional wellness.	x	x	x	x		x	x		x
1.4	Experiment with variables that influence sensory perceptions and taste preferences through laboratory taste tests of food products and food analogs.	x	x	x	x		x
	Standard 2: Basic Chemistry of Food
	The Nature of Matter
2.1	Depict the physical structure and components and the chemical properties of atoms, elements, the symbols on the periodic table commonly used in food science, electron transfer, ionic and covalent bond formation, and ionic and covalent compounds.	x	x	x	x		x
2.2	Demonstrate ability to differentiate between pure substances, solutions, and heterogeneous mixtures based on physical properties such as density, melting point, boiling point, and solubility.	x	x	x	x	x	x			x
2.3	Demonstrate physical and chemical reactions in food products in scientific laboratory experiments.	x	x	x	x	x	x			x
2.4	Balance chemical equations to illustrate simple chemical reactions.	x	x	x			x
	Energy: Matter in Motion
2.5	Differentiate among potential and kinetic sources as well as the various forms of energy.	x	x	x			x
2.6	Explain heat of fusion, heat of vaporization, and the relationship between heat and temperature.	x	x	x			x
2.7	Explain the role of energy in metabolism and digestion.	x	x	x			x
	Ions: Charged Particles in Solution
2.8	Calculate atomic mass and molarity levels for various solutions and evaluate taste preferences for various molarity levels in particular foods or food products.	x	x	x			x
2.9	Characterize acids and bases and demonstrate the role of pH in food preservation, baking, other food preparation applications, and in digestion and blood.	x	x	x		x	x

	Water: The Universal Solvent
2.10	Describe how the polar structure of a water molecule affects water's physical characteristics.	x	x	x		x	x
2.11	Explain the ways water content of foods affects food reactions during preparation and storage processes.	x	x	x		x	x			xc
2.12	Explain four functions of water in the body and the role of water in a nutritious diet.	x	x	x		x	x			xc
	Standard 3: Organic Chemistry
	Simple and Complex Carbohydrates
3.1	Summarize the process of carbohydrate production through the process of photosynthesis.	x	x	x			x
3.2	Describe the monosaccharides that form each of the disaccharides and how they are combined to form those disaccharides.	x	x	x			x
3.3	Explain the chemical process and the products of hydrolysis of sucrose and lactose.	x	x	x			x			x
3.4	Explain the characteristics and functions of the four categories of complex carbohydrates (starches, cellulose, gums, and pectins) in food preparation.	x	x	x			x			x
3.5	Evaluate the five physical properties of starch and liquid mixtures and their impact on the selection of starches to be used in food products.	x	x	x			x
3.6	Compare the advantages and disadvantages of the three main methods used to add starches to sauces.	x	x	x			x
3.7	Demonstrate the role of simple and complex carbohydrates in a nutritious diet.	x	x	x			x			x
	Lipids: Nature's Flavor Enhancers
3.8	Relate physical characteristics and dietary sources of saturated, monounsaturated, and polyunsaturated fatty acids to their performance in foods.	x	x	x			x
3.9	Demonstrate the molecular structure of glycerides, phospholipids, and sterols and their functions in food preparation.	x	x	x			x			x
3.10	Explain the nutritional impact of lipids in the diet and in control of heart disease.	x	x	x			x			x
	Proteins: Amino Acids and Peptides
3.11	Explain the amino acid classification system based on nutritional use and relationship of chemical properties of elements and side chains.	x	x	x			x			x
3.12	Describe the primary, secondary and tertiary structures of proteins, at least six factors that denature proteins, and the functions of protein in food production.	x	x	x		x	x			x
3.13	Utilize basic principles of the chemistry of protein to methods of selection, storage, and preparation for eggs, milk products, and meat products.	x	x	x			x
3.14	Compare the nutritional functions of proteins with the functions of carbohydrates and fats.	x	x	x			x
	Enzymes: The Protein Catalyst
3.15	Explain the relationship between a substrate and an active site, the role of coenzymes in enzymatic reactions, and other factors that affect enzymatic activity.	x	x	x			x			x
3.16	Explain how some foods are developed as a result of enzymatic activity.	x	x	x			x			x
3.17	Compare the effectiveness of five methods of preventing enzymatic browning.	x	x	x			x
3.18	Describe and depict the effects of heat and other factors on foods that contain proteolytic enzymes and on their interaction with protein gels.	x	x	x		x	x
	Standard 4: Food Chemistry: The Microcomponents
	Micronutrients: Vitamins and Minerals
4.1	Explain the sources and functions of fat-soluble vitamins, water-soluble vitamins, major minerals, and trace minerals impact food processing and preservation methods have on the nutritive value of food and management of food-related disease.	x	x	x	x	x	x	x		x
4.2	Demonstrate techniques to reduce vitamin and mineral losses during food distribution, storage, and preparation.	x	x	x		x	x			x
	Phytochemicals
4.3	Describe at least eight groups of phytochemicals, food sources for each group, and their role in disease prevention.	x	x	x			x
4.4	Calculate the effects of acids, bases, heat, and mechanical processes on phytochemicals in fruits, vegetables, and dairy products.	x	x	x			x

	Food Analogs and Food Additives
4.5	Compare the functions of food analogs and food additives and the advantages and disadvantages they provide for the food supply.	x	x	x			x	x
4.6	Describe a variety of food additives and analogs and their effects on flavor, texture, appearance, and nutritive value of a variety of foods.	x	x	x		x	x
	Standard 5: Food Microbiology: Living Organisms In Food
	Fermentation: Desirable Effects of Microbes
5.1	Describe factors that impact fermentation of yeast, bacterial, and mold.	x	x	x		x	x
5.2	Illustrate the production or formation of food products that are a result of fermentation and other leavening agents.	x	x	x		x	x
	Food Safety: Sources of Contamination
5.3	Differentiate among the types of pathogens and other food contaminants and foodborne illnesses.	x	x	x			x
5.4	Demonstrate food distribution and handling procedures that prevent or reduce entry of pathogens into the food supply and the growth of illness-causing microbes.	x	x	x		x	x			x
5.5	Describe methods for identifying and controlling sources of contamination of foods and the food supply.	x	x	x		x	x
	Standard 6: Biotechnology In Food Preservation And Packaging
	Thermal Preservation: Hot and Cold Processing
6.1	Compare the effects of various thermal preservation methods on texture, flavor, appearance, and nutritive value of fruits, vegetables, beverages, other foods, and food products.	x	x	x		x	x			x
6.2	Contrast the variables that must be controlled to maintain quality in various methods used for commercial and residential preservation of foods and food products.	x	x	x			x
	Dehydration and Concentration: Controlling Water Activity
6.3	Demonstrate the effects of various methods of commercial and home dehydration on the quality of texture, flavor, appearance, and nutritive value of dried foods, food concentrates, and dehydrated food products.	x	x	x		x	x			x
	Trends in Food Preservation: Irradiation, Packaging, and Biotechnology
6.4	Illustrate the effectiveness of irradiation, light exposure, and variations in temperature and humidity on bacteria growth, oxidative rancidity, and other spoilage indicators.	x	x	x		x	x			x
6.5	Describe and depict the effects of food irradiation, reduced oxygen packaging, and other food packaging methods on the texture, flavor, appearance, and nutritive value of food products.	x	x	x		x	x
6.6	Illustrate impacts of advances in biotechnology and their applications in the food industry.	x	x	x		x	x
	Standard 7: Complex Food Systems
	Mixtures: Solutions, Colloidal Dispersions, and Suspensions
7.1	Demonstrate the effects of temperature, chemical reactants, and mechanical processes on mixtures, including solutions, colloidal dispersions, and suspensions.	x	x	x		x	x			x
7.2	Illustrate the characteristics of colloids and solutes, common types of food emulsions, and properties of suspensions using food and food products as examples.	x	x	x		x	x
	Separation Techniques: Mechanical and Chemical Methods
7.3	Compare and contrast mechanical and chemical methods of sorting or separating foods and food components.	x	x	x		x	x
7.4	Explain how the principle of osmosis is used to separate food components at the macro-molecular level and the impact this has on metabolism.	x	x	x		x	x			x
7.5	Compare osmosis in food products with digestion and metabolism of food components in the human body.	x	x	x		x	x
	Research: Developing New Food Products
7.6	Contrast descriptive research and analytical research.	x	x	x		x	x
7.7	Employ the scientific method to develop food science experiments, including at least one control and one variable, that examine one of the characteristics of a complex food system.	x	x	x			x
7.8	Demonstrate synthesis of research findings to develop and test a formulation for a new, nutritious food product or new variation of a food product.	x	x	x		x	x			x

	Standard 8: Historical And Career Perspectives INSPIRE&gt;Links&gt;Jobs &amp; Careers
8.1	Describe major occurrences in the three historical periods in the development of foods.	x	x	x			x
8.2	Summarize the ways food products and processing methods have changed in modern history due to contributions of food scientists.	x	x	x			x
8.3	Illustrate with a time line the milestones in government regulation of food, food processing, food products, and food packaging.	x	x	x		x	x
8.4	Analyze personal qualities and training needed, working conditions, employment outlook, and career opportunities related to food science, food service, and dietetics in business, education, and government.	x	x	x	x		x	x

	CONSUMER ECONOMICS
	Standard 1: Processes
	Explain, demonstrate, and integrate processes of thinking, communication, leadership, and management in order to apply family and consumer sciences knowledge and skills.
1.1	Explain and demonstrate components of directed thinking, particularly critical thinking, creative thinking, and reasoning.	X	X	X			X			X
1.2	Explain and demonstrate components, roles, functions, and styles of effective communication in family, community, and career settings.	X	X	X	X	X	X	X	X	X
1.3	Explain and demonstrate collaborative leadership that encourages participation and respect for the ideas, perspectives, and contributions of all group members.	X	X	X	X		X	X	X	X
1.4	Explain and demonstrate management and problem-solving processes to address problems, make decisions, and accomplish tasks and responsibilities in family, career and community settings.	X	X	X	X		X	X	X	X
1.5	Examine and demonstrate interrelationships among thinking, communication, leadership, and management processes and their applications to making decisions and addressing individual, family, community, and workplace issues.	X	X	X	X	X		X	X	X
	Standard 2: Individual And Family Economic Roles
	INSPIRE&gt;Links&gt;Jobs &amp; Careers
	Analyze economic actions and responsibilities of individuals and families in their roles as exchanger, consumer, investor, saver, producer, and citizen.
2.1	Examine interrelationships among standards, needs, wants, and goals of individuals and families and their economic roles as exchanger, consumer, investor, saver, producer, and citizen.	X	X	X	X		X	X	X
2.2	Assess and gain control of economic roles in light of personal standards, wants, needs, and goals.	X	X	X	X		X
2.3	Assess the power of individuals and families to proactively choose how, when and in what ways they develop and exchange their human resources for money, goods, and services.	X	X	X	X		X	X
2.4	Examine interrelationships of standards, wants, needs, goals, and consumer satisfaction.	X	X	X	X		X	X	X
2.5	Analyze activities and institutions used to satisfy the consumer needs and wants of individuals and families.	X	X	X	X		X	X
2.6	Determine advantages and disadvantages of investing and saving for individuals, families, and society.	X	X	X	X		X	X
2.7	Examine investment and saving activities, institutions, and alternatives.	X	X	X	X		X	X
2.8	Investigate resources and activities used by families and individuals as producers to transform human and nonhuman resources into goods and services.	X	X	X	X		X	X
2.9	Demonstrate responsible citizenship and leadership in allocating individual, family, and community resources.	X	X	X	X		X	X

	Standard 3: Scarcity
	Explain that because of scarcity (unlimited wants and limited resources), economics systems must be developed by individuals, families, communities, and societies in order to determine how goods and services will be produced and distributed.
3.1	Appraise how consumers and producers confront the concepts of scarcity, choice, and opportunity cost.	X	X	X			X
3.2	Define each of the productive resources (natural, human, capital) and identify the returns on each for individuals, families, and communities.	X	X	X	X		X	X
3.3	Identify the characteristics of traditional, market, command, and mixed economies in families, communities, and societies.	X	X	X			X	X
3.4	Compare, contrast, and examine impacts on individuals, families, and communities as to how the traditional, market, command, and mixed economic systems answer the questions: What to produce? How to produce it? and For whom to produce it?	X	X	X	X		X	X
3.5	Use a production possibilities curve to explain the concepts of choice, scarcity, opportunity cost, tradeoffs, unemployment, productivity, and growth, as applied to individual, family, and community economic roles.	X	X	X			X	X
3.6	Identify and explain how individuals and families practice and are affected by the basic economic goals of freedom, efficiency, equity, security, and growth.	X	X	X	X		X	X	X
3.7	Develop and apply a decision-making model to solve economic problems in individual, family, and community settings.	X	X	X	X		X	X	X
	Standard 4: Supply and Demand
	Analyze the role that supply and demand, prices, and profits play in determining what individuals, families, businesses, communities, and societies produce and distribute in a market economy.
4.1	Demonstrate how supply and demand determine equilibrium price and quantity in the product, resource, and financial markets.	X	X	X			X	X
4.2	Predict factors that would cause changes in market supply and demand and their impacts on individuals, families, businesses, and communities.	X	X	X	X		X	X
4.3	Apply the laws of supply and demand in individual, family, and community situations.	X	X	X	X		X	X
4.4	Demonstrate how government wage and price controls create shortages and surpluses for individuals, families, communities, and society.	X	X	X	X		X		X
4.5	Explain the functions of profit in a market economy.	X	X	X			X		X
4.6	Use the concepts of price elasticity of demand and supply to explain and predict changes in quantity as price changes.	X	X	X			X
4.7	Explain how consumers ultimately determine what is produced in a market economy (consumer sovereignty).	X	X	X			X	X	X
	Standard 5: Market Structure
	Describe the organization and role of the firm, analyze the various types of market structure in the United States economy, and assess their impacts on individuals, families, businesses, communities, and society.
5.1	Compare and contrast the following forms of business organization: sole proprietorship, partnership, and corporation.	X	X	X
5.2	Identify the three basic ways that firms finance operations (retained earnings, stock issues, and borrowing), and explain the advantages and disadvantages of each.	X	X	X			X		X
5.3	Explain ways that firms engage in price and non-price competition and how this affects individuals, families, and communities.	X	X	X	X		X	X	X
5.4	Identify laws and regulations adopted in the United States to promote competition among firms. Explain how the effects of these laws have sometimes reduced competition and the impacts of this on individuals, families, and communities.	X	X	X	X		X	X	X
5.5	Describe the benefits of natural monopolies (economies of scale) and the purposes of government regulation of these monopolies (such as utilities).	X	X	X			X	X
5.6	Define cartels, and explain how cartel collusion affects product price and output.	X	X	X			X

	Standard 6: Role of Government INSPIRE&gt;Indiana Links&gt;Consumers
	Examine government roles and actions in a market economy and their effects on individuals, families, businesses, communities, and society.
6.1	List and explain the basic functions of government in a market economy. INSPIRE&gt;Indiana Links&gt; Indiana Taxes, Tax &amp; Legal Forms	X	X	X			X	X
6.2	Identify categories of goods and services provided by various levels of government and the roles of individuals, families, and communities in selecting, supporting, producing, and using these goods and services.	X	X	X			X
6.3	Explain how government responds to positive and negative externalities in the economy.	X	X	X		X	X	X
6.4.	Describe major expense and income categories and their respective proportions of state and federal budgets.	X	X	X			X
6.5	Describe different types of taxes including income, sales, property, and social security, and determine whether they are progressive, proportional, or regressive.	X	X	X			X
6.6	Assess the impact of specific progressive, proportional, and regressive taxes on individuals, families, and communities with different economic characteristics.	X	X	X			X
6.7	Assess current and future impacts of recent trends in the federal budget deficit and the national debt on individuals, families, and the national economy.	X	X	X			X
6.8	Appraise recent trends in state and federal spending and taxation, and analyze the cause of recent federal budget deficits.	X	X	X			X
	Standard 7: Money and the Role of Financial Institutions
	Examine the role of money and financial institutions in a market economy and their impacts on individuals, families, businesses, communities, and society.
7.1	Analyze and explain the basic functions of money for individuals, families, communities, and society.	X	X	X			X			X
7.2	Identify the composition of the money supply in the United States.	X	X	X			X
7.3	Explain the role of banks and other financial institutions in the economy of the United States and in the day-to-day activities of individuals, families, and communities.	X	X	X			X			X
7.4	Describe the organization, functions, and impacts of the Federal Reserve System.	X	X	X			X
7.5	Demonstrate how banks create money through the principle of fractional reserve banking, and explain the impacts of this practice on individuals, families, and communities.	X	X	X			X			X
7.6	Identify different causes of inflation. Determine who gains and loses by inflation using individual, family, and community examples.	X	X	X			X
7.7	Compare and contrast services available to individuals and families from financial institutions (e.g. credit, savings, investment).	X	X	X		X	X
	Standard 8: Labor Productivity INSPIRE&gt;Links&gt;U.S. Government
	Explain the importance of labor productivity to individuals, families, communities, firms, and nations by explaining how labor productivity affects income, production, costs, and standard of living.
8.1	Define labor productivity; identify basic factors (technology, education and training, specialization) which affect productivity.	X	X	X
8.2	Explain how increases in labor productivity improve wages and standards of living for individuals, families, communities, and society.	X	X	X						X
8.3	Explain how individual and family decisions to create and purchase new capital goods or to invest in education and training involves a trade-off of fewer consumer goods or services in the present in return for higher future labor productivity.	X	X	X						X
8.4	Explain and give individual, family, community, and society examples of economies of scale.	X	X	X						X
8.5	Explain ways that employers and employees have worked together to improve business productivity.	X	X	X						X
8.6	Compare and contrast labor productivity trends in the United States and other developed countries.	X	X	X		X				X
8.7	Demonstrate how government expenditures, regulations, and tax policy can influence labor productivity.	X	X	X						X

8.8	Compare and contrast how market and nonmarket forces (such as union activity, ?family friendly? policies) influence wage rates and labor productivity.	X	X	X		X				X
	Standard 9: Economic Stabilization
	Describe economic stabilization policies, how they impact the economy, and how they influence and are influenced by individuals, families, businesses, communities, and society.
9.1	Define/explain the following concepts and their interrelationships with the economic roles and activities of individuals, families, and communities: fiscal policy, monetary policy, aggregate supply and demand, unemployment, gross domestic product.	X	X	X			X	X		X
9.2	Explain the four phases of the business cycle: expansion, peak, contraction, and recession.	X	X	X						X
9.3	Explain how the relationship between aggregate supply and aggregate demand is an important determinant of the levels of unemployment and inflation in an economy.	X	X	X						X
9.4	Explain how the government uses taxing and spending decision (fiscal policy) to promote price stability, maximum employment, and economic growth.	X	X	X						X
9.5	Explain the limitations of using Gross Domestic Product (GDP) to measure economic welfare.	X	X	X						X
9.6	Explain how the Federal Reserve uses monetary tools to promote price stability, maximum employment, and economic growth.	X	X	X						X
9.7	Explain how monetary policy affects the level of inflation in the economy.	X	X	X						X
	Standard 10: Trade
	Explain why nations trade goods and services and explain the impact of trade on the economies of the nations involved.
10.1	Define/explain the following concepts, with an emphasis on individual, family, and community applications and impacts: absolute advantage, comparative advantage, quotas, tariffs, exchange rates, balance of payments, balance of trade, trade deficit.	X	X	X		X	X			X
10.2	Explain the benefits of trade among individuals, families, businesses, communities, regions, and nations.	X	X	X				X		X
10.3	Explain why countries sometimes erect barriers to trade.	X	X	X				X		X
10.4	Summarize the arguments for and against free trade.	X	X	X				X		X
10.5	Explain the difference between balance of trade and balance of payments.	X	X	X						X
10.6	Explain fluctuations in currency exchange rates and how these fluctuations affect trade.	X	X	X						X
10.7	Describe impacts of trade agreements such as the North Atlantic Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) and the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) on individuals, families, communities, and countries.	X	X	X				X		X
